What is the significance of the SQS certificate ISO 9001:2008 and the SVLW (Swiss association for air and water hygiene) label?

With the rapid changes in technology and globalisation of the markets, process-orientated quality management has become a necessity. It forms the basis for continuous improvement of the company's internal development and process organisation. ISO 9001 is the foundation for the continuous improvement of the management system as well as process management, and has a cost-cutting effect. (Source: SQS, www.sqs.ch).

TROX HESCO Schweiz AG has also been awarded the SVLW label. This distinguishes companies who are able to plan, produce, install and operate state-of-the-art ventilation and air-conditioning equipment with regard to hygiene. TROX HESCO Schweiz AG is honoured to be one of the first companies to be granted this label.

Where can I register a change of address?

We will be pleased to accept a change of address or any other change to do with the customer database (staff changes, telephone numbers, e-mail addresses, etc.) via the e-mail address: rechnungswesen@troxhesco.ch. We appreciate you helping us keep our customer database up to date.

Is the material ordered available from stock?
